$3.2-Million In Purchase Construction

MAYFIELD — Some 29 Purchase Area community development plan applications, if okayed on the state level, in the future could mean up to $3.2-million in new construction projects.

Most of the applications have passed review via Purchase Area

Development District's board of directors here.

PADD met Monday night, and among other business, reviewed a Murray State University $195,107 application for funds from Kentucky Department for Human Resources to create a young adult conservation corps.

Calloway County Fiscal Court has

State Considers 29 Projects

submitted six applications for community development money, the city of Murray has submitted one.

Community development projects range from a flood abatement plan, an industrial park and a regional museum on Murray State University's campus, to two fire stations, four city hall and courthouse improvements and five recreation improvement and development plans.

According to a PADD spokesman, "Of the total cost, approximately 54 per cent of the funds requested are from federal and or state sources to be used as match on the projects. About 29 per cent of the total project cost will be partially financed through a local source. Thus, area development funds compose only 17 per cent of the total cost of all the projects proposed."

Calloway County projects call for money going for a Dexter Community Center, Hazel Community Center, courthouse renovation, humane shelter, regional museum and airport improvements. The single Murray city application calls for a new city garage-warehouse.

The county fiscal court has applied for about $35,000 in area community development funds, the city of Murray has applied for some $34,000.

Marshall County Fiscal Court has applied for money to renovate a senior citizens building, the city of Benton has applied for money to be used for sewer extensions, and the city of Hardin has applied for funds to improve the water and sewer system.

The total city of Hardin application calls for some $9,750 area development funds to improve the city's outdated water pumping station and sewer system.

The $195,000 Murray State University application proposes "to establish a young adult conservation corps program at Murray State University for the Purchase and Pennyrile Development Districts. The young adults, 16-24, will accomplish conservation projects on the MSU campus, farms biological station lands, and at the Murphy's Pond natural preserve area as well as within their respective home communities."

KWW To Study Tourism Industry In Other Areas

Members of Kentucky's Western Waterlands, a regional tourist promotion organization, this week will be getting tips on how the other guys do it.

KWW members are slated this week to tour four destinations in the Southeast "to gather knowledge and skills that may be used in further developing a quality tourism and recreation industry in this region."

Max Hurt, Kirksey, a member of KWW's board of directors was slated to attend the tour.

KWW work-study tour destinations include Myrtle Beach, S.C., Gatlinburg, Tenn., Lake Lanier Island Authority, Ga. and Helen, Ga.

"The work-study tour will be in Gatlinburg during one of its busiest periods, the Crafts Festival Week," the spokesman said. "There will be a crafts fair at the civic auditorium as well as many other activities at the various craft centers in and around Gatlinburg," the spokesman added.

The KWW spokesman said, "Fall color should be near its peak in Gatlinburg, Smoky Mountain National Park, Lake Lanier Islands, and Helen. In Myrtle Beach the beaches are less active, however, this is the best time for surf fishing. More importantly, October is ideal golfing weather and there will be a great deal of people in Myrtle Beach taking advantage of its 29 golf courses."

According to the KWW spokesman, each location is different and unique and will provide contrasts and comparisons to the Kentucky Lake-Lake Barkley area.

Meetings are scheduled with some of the key leadership at each destination. These meetings will provide an opportunity to learn about these area's tourism accomplishments and also the problems and difficulties which have been encountered," the spokesman said.

Murray Planning Commission members are expected to talk about a recent Kentucky Attorney General's report in conjunction with a 12th Street rezoning consideration when the board meets today at 7 p.m.

Kentucky Attorney General recently indicated that "planning and zoning commissions should extend notice for public hearings to all property owners in the area involved and should use a court stenographer to record the hearing. The opinion, written by Charles Runyan, assistant deputy attorney general, was requested by Steve Zea, city planner.

In a September planning commission meeting, members delayed a vote on the 12th Street rezoning question to, among other things, obtain the opinion.

Also set for the meeting tonight at city hall is discussion of two rezoning requests and a report on the 701 local planning assistance fund.

Southgate Judges To Test Sovereign Immunity

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Two judges have been asked to decide whether the doctrine of sovereign immunity can be used as a shield from liability in connection with the fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club that killed 164 persons.

Attorneys nearly filled a small courtroom here Monday for a joint hearing by U.S. District Court Judge Carl B. Rubin and Campbell County Circuit Court Judge John Diskin.

The two judges took the matter under advisement following an hour-long hearing. There was no word when a decision might result.

More than $1.5 billion in damages are sought in 51 suits filed so far in state and federal courts as a result of the May 28 fire.

Rubin expressed doubt that the state could be sued in a federal court in a case of this kind.

"I don't see how you can sue the state in federal court on a diversity question," the federal judge said. He also questioned claims that the Commonwealth of Kentucky was limiting its liability.

"Clearly a state can limit its sanctuary," Rubin said. "Doesn't the legislature have the right to pass laws that you or I don't agree with? Isn't that a legislative prerogative?"

Attorney William Bertelsman, representing those seeking to dismiss the sovereign immunity claim, called the concept a "patchwork quilt" as it was practiced in Kentucky.

He argued that help could be sought from the board of claims, but that the financial benefits might not be enough and that other avenues for redress might be closed.

Bertelsman labeled the concept, rooted in English common law, a "pernicious doctrine." He said it caused a denial of equal protection and of due process and human rights.

"That concept of royal prerogatives has no place in a government of laws rather than a government of men," Bertelsman said.

Victor Fox, assistant attorney general for the commonwealth, elaborated on Rubin's concerns about whether the state could be treated as a citizen in such a suit.

"That jurisdiction has been given to the board of claims," Fox said. "It is not the jurisdiction of the circuit court."

A.J. Jolly, representing the city of Southgate, Ky., said liability would impose an unfair burden on the residents of this small northern Kentucky community.

Local Farm Receipts Down Over $100,000

To what extent have Calloway County farmers been affected by the adverse conditions that have been troubling growers and cattle raisers in general? How well did they make out, under the circumstances, in the past year?

All in all, they will remember 1976 as not the best and not the worst of years. Their overall receipts from the sale of crops, livestock and other farm products compared favorably with those reported for many parts of the country.

It was a year in which growers were hurt by a downturn in prices for their products in the last half of the year, according to the Farm Index of the Department of Agriculture.

The drop was counterbalanced to a large degree, however, by increased production. What made the huge harvest possible was bigger plantings, generally favorable weather conditions, more intensive use of herbicides and fertilizers and improved efficiency.

Although gross receipts were still at a high level, so were operating expenses. They soared skyward, cutting into the gross, as inflation continued.

In Calloway County, according to figures compiled by the Standard Rate and Data Service, farm receipts in the past year came to $20,003,000. The year before they totaled $19,892,000.

The drop, 0.6 percent, compares with a 2.4 percent drop in the United States.

The income figure refers to gross receipts, before outlays for labor, fuel, taxes, equipment, fertilizer and the like were taken into account.

The bulk of it came from the marketing of crops, livestock and other farm products. The remainder consisted of government payments and "income in kind," which is the value of home-grown food consumed on the farm.

According to the latest Department of Agriculture statistics, approximately 50 percent of Calloway County's cash receipts from farm goods was from the sale of crops and 50 percent from sales of livestock, poultry and dairy products.

The rub for the farmer lies in the fact that he seems to be on a treadmill. He has been increasing his yield but has been making little headway otherwise because of steadily rising operating costs.

Reliable Sources Of Fiber In Diet

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Q. Mrs. A.J. writes that she enjoys average good health except that she is troubled periodically with constipation. She has been reading lately about the advantages of added fiber and wants to know if some special variety of fiber is better than others.

A. Human diet has contained fiber for centuries. In modern, industrial societies, diets have come to include more refined foods and relatively less fiber. Fiber has received considerable popular attention in the public press and in medical articles. Fiber is helpful in increasing the volume of residue in the bowel, softening the stool, lessening bowel irritation, and promoting more frequent bowel movements, especially if adequate fluids are also taken to keep up body moisture.

The traditional or reliable sources of such fiber are from vegetables and fruits in our diet. Wheat bran also contains considerable indigestible material and is a good source of roughage. If your diet regularly contains a variety of these items, and if you drink fluids freely, your periodic constipation should be relieved. Usually, it is not necessary nor wise to invest money in other special foods or bulk-forming laxatives. If your bowel function persists in irregularity after these simple measures, you should see a physician to determine the cause.

Does Milk Encourage Sleep?

Q. Ms. I.P. wants to know if it is only an old wives' tale that warm milk at bedtime encourages sleep.

A. A scientific basis exists that milk encourages sleep by the action of an amino acid, L-tryptophane, which has a mild sedative effect and helps a person to go to sleep. L-tryptophane is present in other foods. If you do not tolerate milk, you might try bananas which are a good source of this chemical. In addition, any kind of food taken into the stomach causes more blood to circulate to the upper gastrointestinal tract, and this demand for blood reduces somewhat the flow of blood to the brain, resulting in some degree of additional sedation. This same effect is more apparent in the feeling of drowsiness that follows a full meal.

"I Remember Friends"

When trouble comes your soul to try
You love the friends who just stand by,
Perhaps there's nothing he can do,
The thing is strictly up to you.
For there are troubles all our own

And paths the soul must tread alone
Times when love cannot smooth the road,
Nor friendship lift the heavy load.

But just to know you have a friend,
Who will stand by until the end,
Whose sympathy through endures,
Whose warm hand clasp is always yours; it helps some way to pull you through.

Altho there's nothing he can do,
And so with fervent heart you cry
God-bless the friend who just stands by.

Pacers Club Has Monthly Meeting

The Pacers Homemaker Club met at 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, October 12 at the home of Priscilla Schanbacher with nine members present.

The lesson on "Consumer Product Safety" was given by Jane Barnett, who urged each one to always send in owners' registration and warranty cards on new products purchased so that one can be informed when products are recalled.

Lola Hurn demonstrated stuffed toys to make for Christmas gifts.

The next meeting will be at the home of Wilma Beatty on November 9 at 9:30 a.m. Each member is to bring something to make for Christmas.

Meat stretchers

There are many ways to "stretch" a meat loaf. Many of these "stretchers" will also add flavor and good nutrition to this popular family dish. For instance, an egg or dry milk powder will add high-quality protein; tomatoes will add vitamin A and vitamin C; chopped parsley vitamin a, and wheat germ (which can be used instead of bread cubes) will add important B vitamins as well as iron.

Says Men Do Not Understand Women

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: You certainly opened a Pandora's box when you ran those letters from women who said sex was messy, sometimes painful, not worth the trouble, and that they could live without it.

I feel sure I have a better than average husband, but men are inept as lovers. (I am not a lesbian, and I do not have any such tendencies.)

Men do not begin to understand women, psychologically or sexually. Their attitudes about sex are selfish. (Me first and then you, if you can manage it.) Men make women feel as though there is something wrong with them if they're tired or have a headache, or just don't feel like it when the men do.

If men knew as little about their jobs or their golf game, they wouldn't be able to earn a living or get off the first tee.

Worse, they won't listen, read or take suggestions. And if their sex life is a flop, they say that it's their woman's fault.

Sign me, Disappointed, Disgusted, Desperate and DEAD.

DEAR D.D.D. AND DEAD: Your husband may be guilty as charged, but don't put ALL men in the same bag. My mail tells me that some men are wonderfully competent lovers. They're considerate, unselfish, tender and willing to read, listen and take criticism. All men are not alike any more than all women are. (Thank heavens.)

DEAR ABBY: The letters from wives who don't think sex is worth the trouble prompts this.

Can you imagine two people "in love," and expecting to marry, asking each other, "On a scale of zero to ten, how does your sex drive rate?" But such a determination, done perferably by outside counsel, would prevent many unhappy marriages.

Low (or no) sex drive does not apply only to women. Though folklore would have us believe that all men are highly sexed, it just isn't so.

For sexual compatibility, zeros should marry zeros, and tens should marry tens.

GEORGE

DEAR GEORGE: It wouldn't work. Some zeros when properly motivated and coached become tens. And some tens, due to some of the other aspects of marriage, become zeros.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know who started the "no-bra" fad, but there ought to be a law against it.

I'm sure women aren't aware of the irreversible damage they do themselves by going without brassieres.

The pictures in National Geographic magazine of African tribeswomen: naked from the waist up should tell us something. Their breasts hang practically to their waists because they have never worn any kind of support.

Today we see bosomy young women on our streets with T-shirts and nothing on underneath. They're even seen on TV. (Now I know why it's called the "Boob tube.")

Abby, please rewrite this and tell the bra-less babes of today they will be the drooping dames of tomorrow.

GOOD SAMARITAN

DEAR SAM: No "rewriting" necessary. It's true. And the technical name for that condition is "Cooper's Droop Syndrome."

Slow-Cooker Hints Are Given By Local Agent

Slow-Cooker Recipe
For Chicken Creole

A recipe for Chicken Creole. Just pop all these ingredients in the cooker, set it on high and let it cook for 4 to 5 hours. It will make from 4 to 6 servings, depending on the appetites at your house.

RECIPE
3 pounds chicken pieces
1 medium onion, sliced
1 medium green pepper cut in thin strips
½ cup diced celery
1½ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 pound can tomatoes
1 4 ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained

"Remember, no peeking while the chicken creole is cooking." Curious cooks must learn to resist the urge to peek and sniff when they use a slow cooker.

The secret of the slow-cooking process is to seal in juices and flavors, she explains. Lifting the lid permits moisture and nutrients to escape. It can also lengthen cooking time by as much as 30 minutes.

Don't Use Slow-Cooker For Heating Leftovers
When you heat up leftovers, use a saucepan, not your slow cooker.

Slow cookers take too long to get the foods to the boiling point. You'd be wasting time and energy, and you really couldn't be sure the leftovers were heated to a high enough temperature or long enough to be safe.

Don't use your slow cooker to heat home-canned vegetables either, even if you're just adding those foods to a soup or stew.

Remember that important safety rule: home-canned vegetables need to be boiled for 10 minutes, 20 minutes for corn and spinach, on top of the range. Do this before you put them in the slow cooker.

This is a precaution against botulism, a rare but often deadly type of food poisoning.

Tastin' snack

For a quick party spread, heat contents of one can (11½ ounces) condensed bean with bacon soup (as is—right out of the can). Place in a crock and garnish with sliced ripe olives or stuffed olives. Have slices of fresh apples (dipped in lemon juice), grapes, and plenty of crackers for go-alongs.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

The Backfire Of SALT

WASHINGTON—The tentative SALT agreement virtually pinned down when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko visited the White House does not classify the Russian Backfire bomber as a strategic weapon despite a new U.S. intelligence report showing it able to reach North America with ease.

A top secret study puts the Backfire's range at over 10,000 kilometers (about 6,200 miles), nearly double some previous estimates. Yet, the strategic arms limitation (SALT) agreement relies on a Kremlin pledge—clearly unverifiable—not to use its impressive new bomber as a strategic weapon.

That alone would guarantee significant opposition to Senate ratification of the SALT II treaty. But briefings within the national security bureaucracy on the tentative agreement point to the all-too-familiar pattern of U.S.—Soviet negotiations: steady U.S. retreats with no significant Russian concessions.

Senior U.S. officials claim a major "concession" by the Soviets in agreeing to lower the overall limit of 2,400 strategic launchers (including long-range bombers) fixed at Vladivostok in 1975. But since the limit applies to each side, calling it a concession can be challenged.

More significantly, the new agreement abandons President Carter's demand of last Spring that Moscow effectively limit the number of its fearsome heavy missiles. Without that limitation and in the absence of U.S. heavy missiles, the Russians gave up nothing by reducing the overall limit on strategic launchers.

Similarly, there is a familiar taste to the way the tentative SALT II agreement handles two weapons systems left in limbo at Vladivostok: the U.S. will severely limit cruise missile ranges for three years. But, according to secret briefings, the Backfire will be limited only by "unilateral" Soviet declarations promising not to use it strategically and promising not to increase production.

Reliance on the Kremlin's word collides with highly classified Air Force briefings, featuring a chart showing the Backfire with longer range than the other bombers listed. That chart in turn reflects a recent study sponsored by the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) and carried out by the Air Force's foreign technology division at Wright-Patterson Air Base.

It reveals that, thanks to important aerodynamic modifications, the Backfire's "B" model—now in serial production—has substantially lengthened its range. If refueled once, in midair, the Backfire range is 8 per cent greater than the most advanced B-52s and 17 per cent greater than the shelved B-1. The DIA study is unmistakable: the Backfire is an intercontinental weapon.

As part of the SALT II agreement, the Russians agree not to refuel the Backfire. But that assurance crumbles on two points: first, the Backfire can hit the continental U.S. without refueling on a one-way mission; second, the Kremlin's promises are simply not verifiable. The "B" model is fitted for midair refueling, and advance Soviet "civilian" aircraft such as the wide-bodied IL-86 can be easily modified to become a tanker.

Nor does the Soviet "unilateral" promise not to increase production really insure against the threat to the U.S. of a greatly expanded Backfire fleet. Thanks to meager U.S. air defenses, the bomber is believed by the Pentagon to be a much bigger threat than is envisioned by the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA).

Thus, as informally agreed upon, SALT II describes an uneven poker game between the Russian and the American. Each is limited in his betting by table stakes. But when needed, the Russian can reach into his pocket and up the ante—by calling on the long-range Backfire bomber, not included in the overall limit on strategic launchers.

How can the U.S. negotiators countenance this? Senior officials say various U.S. intelligence agencies disagree on the Backfire's range. Yet, a 1976 study performed for the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) putting the Backfire's range at 6,000 kilometers (about 3,700 miles) has been discredited as based on faulty premises. In secret congressional testimony July 28, CIA director Stansfield Turner himself conceded his agency's study was out of date.

U.S. negotiators are putting aside their own intelligence study and accepting Russian promises because they believe that the nation's need for an overall arms limitation treaty outweighs inequitable provisions it may contain. That was the philosophy espoused by chief SALT negotiator Paul Warnke and his lieutenants in private life, though certainly not by candidate Jimmy Carter or a good many U.S. Senators. This contrast promises an historic Senate debate with profound consequences.

with the objectives" of the environmental effort, he said, but he questioned the "uneconomic" applications of the regulations.

It is unrealistic to expect companies to spend millions of dollars refitting plants that soon will be phased out, he said, advocating instead that newly built plants only be held to "standards that meet the best known technology."

Chairman also of the American Iron and Steel Institute, and thus a chief industry spokesman, Speer said some of the industry's problems were compounded by Washington's attitude toward pricing. In effect, steel is a regulated industry, he said.

"It is not formally regulated, but informally it is just as tightly regulated as other basic industries," he said, naming among them natural gas, oil and transportation.

In shirtsleeves, speaking tartly, Speer observed that "every industry the government puts under control is in trouble." Leaning forward, he snapped that the government couldn't operate a house of ill repute at a profit.

Too often, he suggested, the industry's complaints that it and its workers are being hurt by subsidized imports have drawn the reaction that the problems arise from the cyclical nature of the industry or from mismanagement.

Acknowledging that some of the problems clearly arise from the ups and downs of the business cycle of which it is so basic a part, Speer said it is nevertheless "very convenient to blame management" for all problems.

If imports were not subsidized, he was asked, could domestic steel compete? "Absolutely could," he replied. He indicated that Japanese exporters were exploiting rather than reacting to marketplace demands.

In 1973-1974, when the world steel industry was at the top of the cycle and unable to satisfy all demand, Japanese exports to the United States fell to 11 per cent of the domestic market and Japanese steelmakers sought price premiums.

With the market now on the low end of the cycle, he said, Japanese exports to the United States have swollen to 18 per cent of the domestic market and Japanese producers are selling at 10 to 40 per cent below domestic prices.

Given true price competition, he said, American steelmakers are fully competitive with European and Japanese producers. "The American steel industry has led in man-hour production (a measure of efficiency) since its inception," he said.

While maintaining U.S. industry is technologically superior to its competition, a position often contested, Speer said American concerns were handicapped by working under different antipollution requirements. Foreign nations, he said, exclude existing plants from some requirements.

Dr. Lank, the Father Of Western's Pre-Med

For 37 years, Dr. L. Y. Lancaster prepared pre-medical students at Western Kentucky University before his retirement in 1960.

"Dr. Lank," as he is affectionately known on "the hill" in Bowling Green, is the third Calloway countian for whom buildings or wings of buildings at Western are named. The wing housing the health services and hospital facilities in the university's sprawling Academic Complex bears his name.

Although he was born in Stewart County, Tenn., Dr. Lancaster, now 84 and living quietly in a spotless, modest home at 930 Nutwood in Bowling Green, considers himself a Calloway countian. He was just a little fellow when his parents moved to Hardin in Marshall County.

They were there only a few months before they moved to the Chestnut Grove community in East Calloway County. Then, when he was about 11 years old, the family moved again, this time to Pottertown, where life was hard.

"We were poor," he recalled on day this past summer. "The only hope we had in growing up was to go to college at Western, because there was no tuition at that time. If a man owned a farm worth $5,000 in those days, he was wealthy. Farm wages were $1 a day and you worked from sunrise until sunset."

In 1911, Dr. Lancaster's father, Elijah Joseph, a carpenter, small-scale farmer and sometime storekeeper, died unexpectedly of pneumonia at the age of 41. Being 17 and the oldest child, Dr. Lancaster assumed the responsibility of the family.

He moved his mother and three younger sisters—Myrtle, Gladys and Mavis—to the Shiloh community. Their livelihood came from what he earned teaching in the rural schools and what his mother and sisters made operating a switchboard for the rural telephone system, something they had done previously in Pottertown.

Dr. Lancaster attended grade school in Chestnut Grove and Pottertown and private schools taught by Lois Boatright, who was an early and major influence in his educational aspirations. He later was granted a First Class County Teacher Certificate by Calloway County. It became the springboard of his teaching career.

In 1915, he taught his first rural school at Grindstone School, and "it was just as hard as the name of the school implies," he said. The next two years, he taught at the West Shannon School; and in 1918, taught one year at Shiloh. In 1919, he was principal of the Flint School, a two-room school, and taught with his sister, Myrtle.

It was during this period that he attended Western, then a normal school, during the winter term, returning to Calloway County to teach in the rural schools during the summer term. He received his Life Certificate in 1921, and immediately enrolled at the University of Kentucky where he graduated with honors in 1923. That was the year he joined the Western faculty.

Shortly after enrolling at UK and on November 26, 1921, he married Pernie Pedigo, a Metcalfe County school teacher whom he had met at Western. They were married 51 years before her death in 1972 at the age of 77.

Dr. Lancaster received his master's degree in 1927 at Ohio State, and four years later was awarded a doctorate in zoology and anatomy by the same institution.

Today, Dr. Lancaster continues to be active in body and keenly alert in mind. He is involved daily in his hobbies of hiking, reading, lecturing and visiting with friends and former students. He has long been widely recognized as an outstanding ornithologist and still assists in organizing annual bird counts.

His hobby of refinishing antique long rifles has established him as a widely-recognized authority on flint lock and the cap lock pieces. But he is warmly recognized and remembered for his genuine concern for the individual and for the potential of each of his students.

Only a short time ago, he was awarded the annual Kentucky Medical Association Award at a big affair in Louisville's Ramada Inn Bluegrass Convention Center. Many of his former students—now prominent physicians, surgeons and dentists—were there to pay glowing tributes to the former teacher and his good friend.

"Dr. Lancaster expected and demanded high performance with little tolerance for poorly done work," one successful doctor was quoted, "but he never demanded more of his students than he already had demanded of himself."

Another added, "He had a deep interest in molding character and integrity, many of us feel we would not have made the grade had it not been for this man's personal involvement in our pre-medical training and our lives. He was always teaching, but never pedantic; always stimulating but never a bore."

Below Cost Pricing

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If domestic steelmakers practiced the same below-cost pricing used by foreign exporters to the American market "it wouldn't take 60 days to throw them in jail," said Edgar B. Speer, U.S. Steel Corp. chairman.

The Clayton Act (of 1914) outlawed the pricing of goods below cost in order to drive competition out of business, and the Trade Act of 1974 restated it, said Speer, reading the latter act's statement of purposes.

Paragraph 4 of the statement declares as one of the aims "to provide adequate procedures to safeguard American industry and labor against unfair or injurious import competition." Section 301 authorizes the President to impose quotas.

But, he said, when foreign producers sell at below production costs "we think it's lovely" instead of enforcing promptly the legislation on the books. The 20 million tons of imported steel, he indicated, is the equivalent of 100,000 domestic jobs.

Eager to point out the implications of steel's difficulties for the local and national economies, the chairman contrasted the $30-a-ton discount obtained by the American buyer of foreign steel with what he said were much higher costs in unemployment compensation and lost domestic production.

In a blunt interview Oct. 12, the day before he and other steel company executives met at the White House, Speer expressed resentment over what he felt was a failure of Washington to respond to the industry's difficulties.

Since 1974, he said, steel producers have tried without success to "win the ear of federal officials about imports. "Now we're invited down in 1977." He paused. "Invited," he said again, drawing out the pronunciation. "In 1977... big deal."

Speer said the industry finally won attention to its problems — imports, environmental regulations, capital shortage — only when they became social problems, with plants closing and "60,000 people hitting the bricks."

He was said to be more optimistic after the meeting with President Jimmy Carter, encouraged by the likelihood of limits on "dumped" imports as well as possible relief from strict enforcement of environmental regulations.

Commenting on a wide range of steel-related subjects, Speer referred to what he claimed was the illogical administration of environmental regulations and interference by government in pricing.

Here's How

Supplementary Heat Cuts Costs

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Many people are seeking supplementary heat that will help cut the cost of their fuel bills, especially if they have a costly heating system.

The average wood-burning fireplace may throw little heat into a room, although some owners of well-insulated homes use their fireplaces more often than their major heating systems. But there are fireplace units that can recirculate heat into a room and these can provide considerable warmth. Then, too, fireplaces may be supplemented with wood stoves. In her book, "The Wood Burning Stove," Gerri Harrington aims to provide information about heating and cooking alternatives.

Such stoves include heavy cast iron and plate steel box types that have become popular as emergency heat in the northeast and other areas where there have been power outages. Like generators, which small-home owners often acquire after a big storm, upkeep is needed so that the heating units are ready to provide service when it is necessary. But more and more people are considering such stoves as major heating sources.

Unless you have previous experience with wood-burning stoves you should not replace your central heating, cautions the author, who says, however, that heating and cooking bills can be cut enormously by using a wood-burning stove to supplement a regular heating system.

With wood there should be no worries about running out of fuel, she reassures. A never-ending supply of firewood is available in the forests and backyards of America. Man merely harnesses nature to take care of his needs, she says.

If it takes 41 gallons of oil to equal a cord of wood (as fuel potential) and if oil costs 40 cents a gallon, a person could afford to pay $56 for a cord of wood, the author states. In fact a cord of shag bark hickory will deliver as much heat as 251 gallons of fuel oil, she claims.

"Even then you don't need to buy all your wood," she says, "there is so much free." It could come from the property of friends, relatives, dumps, landfills, state forests, national forests, telephone company tree clearings, hurricanes, ice storms and the like. She cites wood for its availability, easy storage, non-pollution and beauty. And if you can order it in four-foot lengths, you can save additional money. A typical pickup truck can not handle a cord of wood which likely weighs more than a ton and a half, she points out. A full cord of four-foot wood requires a dump truck.

Wood burning also has some disadvantages. Wood is heavy; stoves need maintenance; fires and chimneys need tending.

The book includes a wood-burning stove catalogue with information about the purchase of stoves that range from the Franklin type and Scandinavian stoves to cook stoves that have ovens and warming closets, and box stoves with cooking tops and lids that become griddles. There are also thermostatically controlled heaters — one with a seven-and-a-half-foot firebox requires loading only once in 12 hours. Another, a cast iron quires loading only once in 12 hours. Another, a cast iron Danish box stove, can heat an area of 10,000 cubic feet. And those pot-bellied stoves, originally made for railroad stations, are still available. So, too, the trim little parlor stove. There is information on how to buy and order the stoves.

In addition to comparison of wood fuel values there is information on recommended dimensions of fireplaces and heat equivalents of wood.

Classic kitchen 'work triangle'

The "work triangle" approach to kitchen planning remains the classic favorite of the 4,000,000 Americans who remodeled their kitchens last year, according to the National Home Improvement Council, the New York-based coordinated voice of the $30-billion home improvement industry.

According to the Council, a working kitchen begins with plans for three work-centers.

The sink should be the first of the work-centers to be placed. Traditionally, the sink is found under a window; but if locating it there puts it out of reach of the refrigerator, it can be placed on an inside wall or island which would make the window space available for a dining or seating area.

The second work center is the refrigerator. It should be placed so the door, or doors, open toward the counter serving it.

The cooking area is the third center, completing the "work triangle." It is basically the path walked by the homemaker as she works in her kitchen.

Professional kitchen planners advise starting at the center front of the sink, measuring to the center front of the range, then to the refrigerator and back to the sink. If the distance between any two of these work centers is less than four feet, there won't be sufficient counter or storage space serving each center.

If any one path is more than seven feet (with the exception of the distance between refrigerator to range, which can be as much as nine feet) unnecessary distances will be walked by the homemaker. All of these paths together should not be less than twelve feet or more than twenty-two feet.

Broken-down to better-than-new!

A GOOD HOME IMPROVEMENT CONTRACTOR can help you re-design your home with aluminum siding. This ugly, tired, squat old house with its broken shingles and peeling paint became "better than new" by careful selection of beige aluminum siding with white trim. Double 4-inch aluminum siding was used vertically on the first two stories to give the home a taller, more elegant appearance. Old wooden window casings were covered with custom-formed white aluminum to provide both beauty and low maintenance. White paint brightened up the decorative scroll-work and wooden columns, and white aluminum storm windows were added as a final, energy-saving, decorator touch. For more information on re-siding your home, write for a copy of "A Homeowner's Guide to Choosing Siding," available free from the Siding Information Bureau, 250 West 57th St., Dept. M-4, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Storm windows and doors stave off high costs and chilly blasts

Aluminum storm windows and doors and replacement windows are a great energy-saving idea these days. What with higher heating fuel costs, expected tax incentives and memories of last winter's bitter cold, now may be as good a time as any to take that energy conservation step.

Storm windows can cut heating bills 10 to 20 per cent, according to the National Bureau of Standards. At average 1977-fuel prices in a 6,000 degree-day climate, such as Cleveland and Chicago, the investment in storm windows and doors can be recovered in five years, the NBS reported. That's based on current heating oil prices.

The payback period could be as few as two to three years for electrically-heated homes.

And with President Carter's proposed tax credits for home insulation the incentive is even greater. Under the Carter proposal, homeowners would get a tax credit of 20 per cent of the first $2,000 spent on "approved" conservation measures. Aluminum storm windows would fall under the "approved" conservation measures.

When approved, the tax credits would be retroactive to the President's message. Therefore, it is not necessary to postpone installation until final passage of the legislation.

Only about 23 million of the 75 million year-round, one-family homes in the United States have storm windows on every window, reported the Census Bureau. The most widely-sold type of storm window is the "triple track" aluminum window that comes with screens that can be simply slid into place

STORM WINDOWS, such as these aluminum triple-track kind with screens, can cut heating bills 10 to 20 per cent according to the National Bureau of Standards. Both storm sash and the screen each have their own tracks for self-storage.

in the fall and spring. When shopping for windows, try to see a full-size sample, if possible, and compare the quality of the windows—particularly at the corners where joints should be neat, yet strong. Remember, the heavier the frame and general construction, the stronger and more durable the window.

Top quality windows also have thicker weatherstripping and heavier glass that weighs at least 18 ounces per square foot.

If your windows are loose and drafty—or hard to get up and down—consider replacement windows. They easily install in place of your old windows and cut down on air leaks. They are available

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q — We have an oak floor in our living room that is so beautiful we do not cover it with a rug. When we moved in a year ago, the floor was finished with a penetrating sealer, the kind that is clear. There now are several marks on it, possibly from the bottom of someone's shoes, although we don't know exactly what it is. We don't know much about these things and have hesitated to try to get the marks out for fear of ruining the floor. Can you give us some advice?

A — Most stains and marks can be removed by rubbing the area lightly with fine steel wool, then cleaning with a cloth dampened with turpentine or mineral spirits. Wipe dry and repeat the process if necessary. There is no danger of ruining the floor. If the marks are very stubborn, try sanding lightly with fine paper. In extreme cases, you may have to use wood bleach, in which case you will have to be very careful not to get any on your hands, face or clothes. Wear rubber gloves and goggles. In any of these methods, removing the marks may also take off a little of the finish. One advantage of a penetrating sealer is that you can touch up an area and make it blend with the surrounding surface.

Q — I want to buy a step-ladder and don't know whether to get one made of aluminum or wood. This is of concern to me because I weigh more than 200 pounds. What do you suggest?

A — Most ladders have a rated capacity marked on them. Get one of that type. Whatever the capacity is, the ladder will hold several times that weight because of safety standards set by government agencies — and the manufacturers themselves. You should have no problem. Wood ladders are heavier than aluminum and do not conduct electricity, so should be favored if you do electrical work. Aluminum ladders are easy to handle. In either case, inspect the model you choose for signs of good or poor workmanship.

Q — I have inherited an old dining-room table made of maple. It has no finish on it and I want to stain it a walnut color. Do I have to put a sealer over the stain before I apply varnish?

A — Before answering your question: I am against staining maple a dark color. Instead of having a nice piece of maple furniture, you have some kind of undistinguishable wood with no character. Why not use a maple stain? As for a sealer, yes, it should go on over a stain. If you use a varnish, make it the semi-gloss type.

Standing On The Firing Line

By Mike Brandon

Saturday's Game "Must Situation" For MSU

For the past two weeks, I've been expecting the Murray State Football team to break loose at any time.

They did and they didn't Saturday. For one quarter, they played tough on offense but after that, it was all on the shoulders of the defense to hold Middle Tennessee.

The defense did just that and of course, the Racers won the game and ended their four-game losing streak. So... One game doesn't make a season. Nor, do four losses necessarily end one. The simple fact is the Racers are still at a crucial situation where they could well turn the tide and wind up with a 7-4 or 6-5 record or (we won't say what else they could do).

Murray could have won 30-9 Saturday. When Mike Dickens left the game, after one quarter, he had 50 yards in passing and 50 on the ground for a total of 100 yards. Not bad for one quarter.

Backup quarterback David Ruzich kept the ball just one time and gained two yards. Thus, Murray lost another runningback when Dickens went out. With the wind gusting the way it was, Middle knew Murray would not throw much. And of course, they knew Ruzich wouldn't do much running, therefore they keyed on the other Racer runningbacks.

So you wind up with Murray not scoring in the second half.

"It was a game of two pointers," MSU coach Bill Furgerson said at the Big M Club meeting last night.

"The success and failure of the two-point plays made the difference in the game. It was certainly a great thing for someone like Ruzich to walk on the field and on his first play, throw the two-point conversion pass.

"Then, Sam Franklin got us the safety on the first play of the game and then on Middle's touchdown, we stopped them on the two-point conversion. So it was quite simply a game of two pointers."

The win did cost the Racers though.

Dickens showed up at the meeting on crutches. Though there are no breaks, it appears doubtful Dickens will be ready in time to go against East Tennessee in the Minidome Saturday afternoon.

Also, the Racers lost defensive tackle Chuck Marquess for the season. Marquess will have to undergo surgery for torn ligaments.

Before their 35-0 loss at Western Carolina Saturday, East Tennessee had been averaging nearly 400 yards in total offense and 23 points per game. For the past two weeks, they have been without their regular quarterback but he will return against the Racers.

The game might well boil down to a shoot-out between the two quarterbacks. Ruzich has a shotgun arm. He's quite capable in that department. But he is not the scrambler Dickens is. That simply means the Racers will have to get superb offensive line play, something they did not get in the last three quarters at Middle.

Murray must win at East Tennessee. If the Racers come home 3-4, they will win the following week over Eastern Kentucky and even the season record. And if they do that, they will very likely upset Austin Peay in Stewart Stadium the following week.

To be quite honest about it, the Racers may well finish 7-4.

They will have to display confidence in each other and for 60 minutes of actual playing time, bust their rears. The whole season hangs on Saturday and how well the Racers do in the mountains.

Practice Open

Basketball practice officially opened yesterday afternoon but the real fun doesn't begin until later this week.

In fact, the Racers have a game Friday. They'll be playing in wheelchairs and going against the Eastern Kentucky Roadrunners, one of the top wheelchair teams in the nation.

And if you are unable to make the game, since it's also the Murray High Homecoming Friday, then you can catch the Racers in an open scrimmage Saturday in the Sports Arena at 7 p. m.

Racer coach Fred Overton said his club will scrimmage almost every Saturday night and the public is invited to attend. There will be a couple of Saturdays when Overton will be out of town and the Racers won't scrimmage so watch the paper for more information on the scrimmages.

On November 3, the Racers will play an intrasquad game at Paducah Community College. The game will begin at 7:30 p. m. Then on November 14, the Racers play a 7 p. m. scrimmage game at Mayfield High School.

Dodgers' Survival Hope Rests On Hooton's Arm

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Torrez and the New York Yankees try to end the baseball season that began last February while the Los Angeles Dodgers rest their hopes on Burt Hooton's knuckle-curveball tonight in sixth game of the 1977 World Series.

The best-of-seven Series returns to Yankee Stadium with the New Yorkers needing one victory for their 21st world title. The Dodgers, trailing 3 games to 2, staved off elimination by winning Sunday and look tonight to Hooton, who beat the Yankees with a five-hitter in Game 2 Wednesday night.

The Hooton victory evened matters at 1-1 before Torrez sawed off the Los Angeles bats in the Series' pivotal game last Friday.

"I can't lay back and be fine," Torrez said Monday. "I have to go right at them — be aggressive on the mound. I know if I pitch a good game and we win, we're world champions."

"I want to win it in a bad way," he said, pointing to his ring finger. "I want the one (the ring) that says 'World Champions.'"

The Dodgers, who want to become the fourth team in history to come back from a 3-1 deficit, hope Hooton's baffling knuckle-curveball will be their savior.

"I'm going to try to keep Mickey Rivers and Willie Randolph (the Yankee's speedy leadoff batters) off the bases," said Hooton. "I think we'll be in good shape if I can do that."

Monday was a day off for travel in this cross-country matchup of traditional rivals. But it didn't stop the Yankees from adding another installment to their ditty Soap Opera, which has been spiced with backstabbing, second-guessing, personality clashing and near-firings.

Ed Figueroa, at first designated as the Yankees

sixthgame pitcher, cleaned out his locker on Monday.

Figueroa has been ailing the past few weeks with a sore finger, but said he threw on Saturday and Sunday "and I felt 100 per cent."

Yankee Manager Billy

Martin, however, got a different diagnosis after consulting the team doctor and two trainers.

"I know he wants to pitch

but I'm not going to take a chance and put a man out there who is not 100 per cent in a big game," said the embattled manager.

Figueroa said Martin had given him permission to go home since he wasn't in the Yankees' pitching plans. So he cleaned out his locker. "Then I came back to my hotel and I heard he was saying that I left the club," Figueroa said. "But he gave me permission. It is just a misunderstanding."

Figueroa said he will be at the big ballpark in the Bronx

tonight, as will be some 56,000 fans, a source of some concern to the Dodgers.

During Game 2, the Dodger

bullpen was bombarded by bottles and an enormous fruit salad — one piece at a time. As the game ended, right fielder Reggie Smith was beaten by a rubber ball hurled from the upper deck, causing neck and back spasms that continue to bother him.

"The fans? They're gonna be there. The less said about them the better," said Smith, who has contributed two of the Dodgers' eight Series homers,

the most by any team since

Baltimore had 10 in 1970.

"I'm happy to be going back to Yankee Stadium. It's a big ballpark with big gaps and we're a gap-hitting team."

"It's always nice to play in our home ballpark," said

Martin. "We've played real well at home."

But they have lost two straight on their home field six times this season, which is what the Dodgers are counting on here.

"Our victory (Sunday)

decreased the odds," said

Dodger Manager Tom

LaSorda. "People were saying how only three teams have won three straight after being down 3-1. Well, that doesn't apply to us any more.

"The question now is: How many teams have won two straight? That's all it is for us now."

Willis Reed Returns To Knicks, To Make Coaching Debut Tonight

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Willis Reed, captain and mainstay of the New York Knicks' 1970 and 1973 championship teams, returns to the club as coach tonight as the Knicks open the National Basketball Association's 32nd season against the revamped Kansas City Kings.

In other opening night games, Los Angeles is at Milwaukee, Chicago at Cleveland, New Jersey at Detroit and Golden State at Phoenix.

Reed is one of three new coaches in the NBA this season, but the only one who'll be tested tonight. Seattle's Bob Hopkins and Buffalo's Cotton Fitzsimmons start their seasons Wednesday.

Defending champion New York won six of eight

Portland does not play its first game until Friday. If the Blazers can win the title again, they'll be the first repeat champions since the Boston Celtics in 1968-69.

The New Jersey franchise competed last year in Uniondale, N.Y., as the New York Nets, but will be based for the next two seasons in Piscataway, N.J. After that, the club is scheduled to move to a new arena to be built in the Meadowlands Sports Complex in East Rutherford, N.J.

Reed inherits a group of players with big reputations and paychecks to match. But many are weak in fundamentals, and that is what Reed has stressed during the exhibition season when games.

Rookies Ray Williams, Glen Gondrezick and Toby Knight and trade acquisition Jim Cleamons are expected to bolster the Knicks, who have gone through three losing seasons and have missed the playoffs the last two.

Kansas City also has some significant newcomers: rookie guard Otis Birdsong, the second man picked in the college draft, and two trade acquisitions, center Tom Burleson of Seattle and guard Lucius Allen from Los Angeles. Coach Phil Johnson is hopeful this trio will boost the Kings into playoff contention.

Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the league's Most Valuable Player last year, has many newcomers in his supporting cast on the Lakers. Rookie forward Kenny Carr broke a bone in his foot and will be out for at least a month, but other rookies who will see action include guards Brad Davis and Norm Nixon and backup center James Edwards. Other new faces include forward Jamaal Wilkes, signed from Golden State as a free agent; playmaker Ernie DiGregorio, bought from Buffalo, and swingman Lou Hudson, obtained by trade from Atlanta.

Wilkes and Nixon are both expected to be in the starting lineup tonight.

Milwaukee, meanwhile, presents the youngest team in the league with youthful veterans like Brian Winters, Quinn Buckner, Junior Bridgeman and Dave Meyers and a trio of first-round draft choices — center Kent Benson of Indiana, a two-time All-American; forward Marques Johnson of UCLA, college basketball's Player of the Year last winter, and swingman Ernie Grunfeld, the leading scorer and rebounder in Tennessee history.

"I like him (Cosell) myself," Howard said after shattering the set on his first try. "But he has a big mouth and is a little obnoxious.

"He cuts the Broncos down a lot and gives them a bad deal.

He's from back East and he's just for the eastern teams.

"I think the point of this is it's just fun. Howard is the focal point."

Gerry Brown, manager of the bar, said he began the raffle to drum up business.

"I was thinking that I'd sure like to get a shot at Cosell and we came up with the raffle idea," Brown said.

His only outlay is about $25 a week for a used black-and-white set, he said, and business has picked up five-fold since the start of the season.

Brown said he outlined the idea in a letter to Cosell, and the response was what he expected. "He's not happy about this at all," Brown said.

"He called it an ungentlemanly thing to do and a cheap publicity stunt," Brown said. "He's right. It is a cheap publicity stunt."

Win Raffle Ticket: Get To Fling Brick At Cosell On TV

DENVER (AP) — Step right up and win a Monday night football brick.

Business is booming at the Sweetwater pub since owners began a raffle with the winner getting to toss the brick through a television set at sportscaster Howard Cosell.

Football fans here, upset at ABC-TV for not scheduling their Denver Broncos for a Monday night television appearance and claiming Cosell deliberately has omitted Denver from the halftime highlights on occasion, have taken their ire out on Cosell.

They contend Cosell has the clout within the network to get the Broncos on the tube, but hasn't because he believes Denver has a mediocre team.

The unbeaten Broncos, atop the American Football Conference's Western Division, won their fifth game Sunday, routing the world champion Oakland Raiders 30-7 in Oakland.

Mike Howard, a 26-year-old railroad worker, won the latest raffle and blasted a used black-and-white set even though Cosell, who is working the World Series, did not appear.

Spurred on by a cheering crowd of Bronco supporters, the bearded Howard tossed a curve through the black-and-white set that would have made Catfish Hunter envious. The television exploded into shards of glass and clouds of dust, the onlookers fanning more taunts at Cosell.

"I like him (Cosell) myself," Howard said after shattering the set on his first try. "But he has a big mouth and is a little obnoxious.

"He cuts the Broncos down a lot and gives them a bad deal.

Racer Cagers In Wheelchair Game Friday

The Murray State Racers will open their basketball season Friday night with a handicap...they'll be playing in wheelchairs.

The exhibition game, against the Eastern Kentucky Roadrunners, will be played at 8 p.m. in Beshear Gymnasium Friday.

The Roadrunners are one of 115 teams in the National Wheelchair Basketball Association. They play out of Paintsville, Ky.

The game is being sponsored by the Murray-Calloway County Jaycees and by the Rehabilitation Club at Murray State. There will be a one dollar donation charged at the door.

All proceeds from the game will go to the Special Winter Olympics, which are sponsored on the local level by the Jaycees.

To Do Racer Games

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Chet Coppock, sports director of Indianapolis television station WISH-TV, has joined the radio broadcast team for all home games of the Indianapolis Racers this season.

The World Hockey Association team announced Monday that Coppock, who also is public address announcer for the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, will join Mike Forness for the radio play-by-play.

The Racer broadcasts originate on WIBC of Indianapolis.

Billy Martin Will Remain As Yanks' Manager, Win Or Lose

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Win, lose or draw in the World Series, the best bet of the century is that feisty Billy Martin — dire forebodings to the contrary — is going to keep his job as skipper of the New York Yankees.

At least until he really blows a fuse and tries to push owner George Steinbrenner over the third tier at Yankee Stadium.

President Gabe Paul has taken the rostrum to say he dearly loves a man with a little paprika in his system — a guy like Bad Billy, unafraid of the consequences. They win ball games.

Steinbrenner, who has grandiose dreams of resurrecting the Yankees baseball dynasty but at the same time keeps an eye on the cash register, is hysterically happy about a team that scratched and clawed its way to the top and drew more than two million fans both at home and on the road.

And the fans — those rambunctious, smoke-bombing, bottle-throwing rascals from the Bronx — they'd rip the concrete facade off the ball park if the brass did anything rash to their scrawny, scrappy hero.

They love their Billy, as recorded by the applause meter every time the loud speaker sounds his name.

Critics keep firing their bantam rooster of baseball. It happened no less than five times during the regular season — count 'em. Remember Black Wednesday, Aug. 17 in Detroit? Now a national news magazine has Reggie Jackson pressuring the owner to give the manager the sack, or else.

But it's the same old refrain. And off-key.

"An out and out lie," roars the controversial Jackson of the latest report. "Somebody just trying to get me involved again. It's a shame."

Steinbrenner was collared in the lobby of the Yankees hotel headquarters in Los Angeles prior to the fifth game Sunday.

He said the decision on Martin would rest entirely with Paul, whether you want to believe that or not. He gave every indication that he wasn't about to pull the rope on the guillotine.

Paul, confronted between innings, insisted, "Billy Martin is the Yankee manager. His contract has two more years to go (at $100,000). That's it."

Both big bosses acknowledged there had been ripples of discord at various stages during the season. Most of them were ironed out on the spot. Those which weren't will be taken care of before the 1978 campaign.

Meanwhile, it's pretty safe to say Martin's job is secure unless he does something stupid — an act not beyond the realm of possibility. Billy is known to have a self-destruct complex.

Some of the thorns which have been gouging Steinbrenner's flesh have been removed. Billy has lost some of his arrogance, although he continues to maintain his independence. He has quit taunting his bosses. He is working better within the organization.

On the field, there is perhaps no better tactician in all baseball. In other categories, his marks aren't all that spectacular. He is inclined to be lax in administrative duties and in team discipline. Some say he stifles talent he doesn't like.

Martin has discovered that he cannot slough off — out of personal pique — Steinbrenner's star free agent catch, $2.9 million Jackson. Now when Reggie produces, Billy gives him four friendly pats and an appreciative hug. Reggie often praises Billy in public.

This is the kind of stuff that makes owner Steinbrenner happy.

"When we signed Jackson, we expected four things of him," the Tampa ship builder says. "We wanted him to put fans in the seats, hit over .275, hit 30 home runs and bat in 100 runs."

Reggie batted .286, hit 32 homers and had 110 RBI. His electric quality, fed sparks by the adversary relationship with Martin, kept fans pouring through the turnstiles.

Steinbrenner, an astute business man, is not going to break up a neat toy like that.

Steelers Whip Bengals 20-14 In Game Filled With Errors

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Maybe you saw the Pittsburgh Steelers beat the Cincinnati Bengals on Monday night television, but didn't follow a few of the freak and frantic happenings.

You weren't alone.

"There were lots of things out there I didn't understand," said Bengal team founder and ex-coach Paul Brown, the football authority who have the game such innovations as face masks, playbooks and game films.

Whatever the films show today, both coaches gave gut impressions after the Steelers won 20-14.

"A loss is a loss is a loss," said Bengal wide receiver Isaac Curtis.

Curtis was smothered at the Steelers' seven-yard line to end the game after Pittsburgh nearly lost a 13-point lead in last seconds.

Here are some events that led up to that last gasp.

Bradshaw, who cracked the small bone in his left wrist last week in Houston, started the game wearing a plastic cast. He fumbled his first center snap. "I guess that shook the fans up some," he laughed later.

On the first play of the second quarter, Rocky Bleier ran one yard for a Steeler touchdown, set up a couple of short Bradshaw to John Stallworth passes. "I play well when there's a lot of heat," said Bradshaw, who completed six of nine passes and kept the ball on the ground. "Last week in Houston, I was as relaxed as a dog in a bunch of daisies, and it stunk the joint up."

A series later, Stallworth caught a pass but lost the ball and his equilibrium when belted in the face by a fist from Bengal defensive back Melvin Morgan. Noll called it a "good right cross." The officials called it a 15-yard penalty.

Yet Bleier fumbled a few plays later. Bengal cornerback Jerry Anderson scooped the ball up cleanly at Cincinnati's 30-yard line and ran to the Steeler endzone. But the play was called back because an official had accidentally tooted his whistle too early.

"He blew the whistle — what is the word, inadvertently," said Johnson. The Bengals still got the ball, drove into Steeler territory and lined up for a 50-yard field goal try by Chris Bahr.

The snap went over Bahr's head. As he chased the ball, he kicked it twice. Steeler cornerback Mel Blount grabbed it and ran to the three, and Bleier scored two plays later.

"We were playing soccer for a while," said Blount, who didn't know Bahr was a soccer All-American at Penn State. "I wanted to pick it up," said Bahr, "but I missed it and it hit my foot."

The Steelers had kicking trouble of their own. Roy Gerela missed the point-after. And Cincinnati scored 1:04 before halftime on a four-yard run by tackle Glenn Bujnoch.

Yes, tackle Glenn Bujnoch. He took an improvised lateral from quarterback John Reaves and carried his 257 pounds and the ball into the endzone. "I knew it was a lateral. I just hoped the ref knew," said Reaves.

Anderson, the Bengals' starting quarterback, was hit on the knee by tackle Steve Furness in the second quarter. "I wouldn't classify it as a late hit," said Anderson, out the rest of the night.

In the second half, Reaves was intercepted three times, and Pittsburgh took a 20-7 lead in the fourth quarter on a one-yard run by Sid Thornton.

That lead looked comfortable until the Bengals blocked a Bobby Walden punt and linebacker Reggie Williams recovered in the endzone for a touchdown with 1:24 left.

Then Morgan, the man who punched Stallworth, grabbed an outside kick at the Steeler 47.

There were 37 seconds left and the Bengals had no timeouts when Tony Davis ran to the Steeler 22.

Steeler linebacker Jack Lambert was dazed on the play and laying on the turf when referee Ben Dreith called time. Dreith figured Lambert was injured. And the timeout was charged to the Steelers under NFL rules because Lambert stayed in the game.

"The referee said he was concerned with Lambert's well being," said Noll.

Lambert was only slightly hurt, but very mad. "He argued he didn't need a time out," Noll said.

Cincinnati got three more plays.

There was an incomplete pass to Billy Brooks. Then Curtis dropped a pass in the endzone. The game ended with a pass Curtis carried to the seven before three Steelers hit him. "If I had an opportunity to pitch it and toss it, I would have pitched or tossed it," said Curtis.

Ham summed up the finish. "We were just trying to boost the Neilson ratings," Ham deadpanned.

Broncos, Steelers Get Wins At Middle School

The Steelers and Broncos picked up wins in sixth and seventh grade football action at Murray Middle School Monday evening.

In the opening contest, the Broncos remained undefeated with a 26-13 win over the Colts while in the second game, the Steelers won 13-4 over the Browns.

The Broncos got off to a 13-0 halftime lead in their win over the Colts. The Broncos scored on their first possession of the game when on a halfback option, Robert Stout connected on a 35-yard pass to Jimmy West. Stout ran in the conversion for a 7-0 lead.

The final score of the first half came late in the first period when Tim Brown connected with Steve McDougal for a 30-yard TD strike. The conversion failed.

In the opening minute of the third period, the Colts closed the gap to a touchdown as David McCuiston scored on a 65-yard run down the middle of the field, making it a 13-6 game. The conversion failed.

But late in the third period, the Broncos again made it a two-touchdown lead as Stout went 10 yards down the middle then Brown hit Greg Turner on the conversion for a 20-6 lead.

The Broncos put the game away in the final quarter with Stout going 20 yards on a draw play, making it 26-6. The final TD of the game came when McCuiston went five yards for a Colt touchdown and Bill Glavin added the conversion.

The coaching staff of the Colts recognized David McCuiston and Kritt Albritten for their offensive efforts and John McFerron, Chris Farmer and Shawn Glavin for defensive efforts. The Colts are now 2-1.

The Bronco coaching staff recognized Stout, Brown, Turner, West, McDougal and Buddy Simmons for offensive play and Jimmy Kelly, West, McDougal, Turner, David York and Dan Whiteford for defensive play. The Broncos are now 2-0-1.

The Steelers and Browns played a scoreless first half in the nightcap.

The first points of the game came following a punt when the Steelers were dropped in the endzone by Harry Weatherly for a safety, making it a 2-0 lead for the Browns.

In the third period, the Steelers finally got on the board when Nicky Santagado picked off a pass and returned it 60 yards for a touchdown. John Smelser scored on the conversion to make it a 7-2 game.

The unusual score of 7-4 then popped on the board in the fourth quarter when the Steelers, backed up deep in their own territory, took a safety by dropping in the endzone.

The final score came when Nicky Santagado scored on a sweep down the left side for 50 yards, wrapping up the win for the Steelers.

The Steeler coaching staff recognized Mike Young, Chris Young, John Smelser, Jeff Downey, Brad Lyons, Joey Asby, Jamie Rogers, Rodney Key and Steve Byer for their blocking. Recognized for defense were Robert Perrin, Mike Daniel, Gary Galloway, Tommy Wagner, Phil Houston, Mike Montgomery and David Wallace.

Recognized for offensive efforts were Nicky Santagado, Jeff Owens and Brad Moore while Galloway was also cited for his punting.

The Steelers are now 1-2 and the Browns are 0-2-1.

Calloway Jayvees Drop 6-0 Game To Bulldogs

Fulton County and Calloway County had a junior varsity football game six weeks ago.

It was the opening game of the season for the host Lakers who fell 22-8 to the Bulldogs.

Calloway repaid the Bulldogs with a trip to Fulton Monday night. But the result was the same, another loss. Fulton City scored in the second quarter and held on for a 6-0 win.

"I felt we lost to a team we should have beaten by two touchdowns. We weren't up for the game and just weren't emotionally ready. We didn't even complete a pass in the game," Laker coach Stan Outland said.

"I guess the fact we won a game last week had something to do with it. Our kids probably felt like they'd done better than what they were supposed to do and just didn't play. They whipped us on the offensive and defensive line both," Outland said.

Calloway, on its first possession of the game, worked all the way down to the Fulton City 10 before fumbling.

Then in the second period, after the Laker defense tackles had the ball bounce off his chest and Fulton City recovered at midfield.

The fumble recovery led to the TD as the Bulldogs scored on a 25-yard pass.

"We had two breakdowns in the game. We lost the fumble on the punt then when they scored the touchdown, we left the receiver wide open in the endzone," Outland said.

In the final quarter, the Lakers moved all the way down to the Bulldog seven but lost another fumble.

"Defensively, we did pretty well. I'd say that on the ground, they had minus yardage. I felt we had a real good effort out of Troy Garland, one of ours."

"Offensively, I can't cite anybody. We didn't do worth a nickel. Our backs didn't run hard at all," Outland said.

The Laker jayvees drop to 1-6 on the season.

Calloway was scheduled to play at home next Monday against Trigg County in the final game of the season. However, Trigg County has cancelled out and the Lakers will have to pick up another team.

New State Laws Affect X-Ray Operators In State

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Medical costs will go up and X-ray treatment will be less accessible under new state regulations affecting X-ray equipment operators, the Kentucky Medical Association says.

However, the Kentucky Department for Human Resources' radiation control branch, which has begun enforcing the regulations, maintains that is not true and the regulations actually will eliminate the possibility of X-rays being improperly used by untrained individuals.

"We know radiation can cause cell damage at certain levels and we want to make sure the public does not receive too much radiation as a result of equipment or personnel operating it," said Don Hughes of the radiation control branch.

"I don't see how anyone who is concerned with public health and safety could be opposed to these regulations," Hughes said Monday in a telephone interview.

Regulations already are being enforced for X-ray equipment, Hughes said. But after July 1, 1978, all X-ray operators in diagnostic and chiropractic medicine and podiatry will be required to meet minimum training standards and hold a license.

But the state is facing opposition from the KMA, which contends the new regulations will work a hardship particularly on doctors with small rural practices who occasionally use X-rays for such things as bone fractures.

"They will ultimately mean higher medical costs," the KMA President-elect, Dr. Carl

Sigma Delta Chi To Hear Panel Tonight

Four area media representatives will be featured in a panel discussion on media job opportunities at the Sigma Delta Chi meeting Tuesday at Murray State University.

The panel members will discuss the current job market and qualities desired in prospective employees.

The meeting is open to all area members of Sigma Delta Chi, the Society of Professional Journalists.

Attorney Phillips Speaker Thursday, Senior Citizens

Murray attorney, J. William Phillips, will be the featured speaker at the Thursday noon luncheon of the Murray-Calloway County Senior Citizens to be held at the Ellis Community Center. Phillips will speak on the subject of Wills and Estates.

Phillips was a participant in the two-day Seminar on the Federal Tax Reform Act of 1976: Estate and Gift Taxes, conducted by the University of Louisville School of Law at Madisonville last month. He has spoken at the University of Kentucky on Legal Problems of Senior Citizens and is a consultant to the Kentucky Municipal Statute Revision Commission.

Currently a member of the American Bar Association Committees on Health Law and on Social Services, Bill Phillips has stated, "The new frontiers in the law relate to that growing class of underprivileged, the elderly." Phillips is a native of Calloway County and has been engaged in the general practice of law for the past 15 years.

Cooper of Bedford, Ky., said Monday by telephone. "If a doctor has to send his patients to a city or a large hospital for routine X-rays because he can't afford to have a trained X-ray operator the patient will end up bearing the added cost."

The KMA's House of Delegates approved a resolution Sept. 28 which characterizes the regulations as duplicative and unnecessary. The resolution authorized the medical group to "pursue through appropriate channels amendments or deletion" of the regulations.

"The regulations are well intended," Cooper said, "and we are as anxious as anyone to safeguard the public from excessive radiation or misuse of X-rays, but we feel the regulations already on the books do that."

Hughes said the approximately 2,000 persons in Kentucky who now operate X-ray equipment in podiatry, chiropractic or diagnostic medicine will be tested in mid-January 1978.

Billy Carter May Save Brewing Company

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Billy Carter's participation in the marketing of a beer named in his honor may save Louisville's last brewery and the jobs of its nearly 300 employees, says the brewery president.

"Billy will give us a shot not only to save this brewery, but, for the first time in many years, enable us to hire some people," said James F. Tate, president of the Falls City Brewing Co.

The President's brother and the brewery announced last month that they will cooperate in the marketing of "Billy" beer, a new brand to be brewed by Falls City.

The company's earnings have declined in recent years, and brewing operations were in the red for one year, but Tate stopped short of saying Falls City would have gone under had it not been for the agreement with Carter.

Had those negotiations fallen through, he said, the company might have introduced a new brand of beer to be called "Fighting Irish."

However, he said, "There was no question we were in a bad spot until we became associated with Billy. The board had delivered an edict that brewing operations couldn't continue to run in the red."

Tate said Falls City, which brews and distributes Falls City and Drummond Bros. Preferred beers in Kentucky and eight other states, currently employs 284 people.

He said 16 to 18 can be added with the introduction of Billy beer.

That will happen Oct. 31 in Georgia, Kentucky and Tennessee, and the company is negotiating with three other breweries about its size to brew Billy to Falls City's specifications, Tate said.

To complete the nationwide circulation of the beer, the company is still looking for a West Coast outlet, he said.

Carter will receive royalties on the sale of Billy beer, though neither he nor the company is saying how much.

Corrections & Amplifications

A Murray Ledger and Times Monday edition story incorrectly said that a directory assistance plan South Central Bell has used in other parts of the state, and which is being considered locally, could mean "one out of 10" customers would pay less. According to a Bell spokesman, other similar plans show "nine out of 10" customers would pay less.

The Murray Ledger & Times tries to correct promptly any errors in fact or clarify any misleading information appearing in news articles. That is the purpose of this column. To report an error or need for clarification please call 753-1918
